NAPOLEON CHAIRS

The classic Napoleon chair was first used by Lutyens in his own home in 1919. Later he had a chair made for each of his five children, one of which now lives in the Victoria & Albert Museum in London. It is said that he named the chair from a painting by Jacques-Louis David of Napoleon seated in an asymmetric chair. Lutyens described it as the next comfortable chair ever.

Lutyens own chair was covered in black horsehair and the horsehair supplied by LFL for the Napoleon chair is woven on the same looms that provided Sir Edwin himself with horsehair for his original chair.
